AH councillor ponders future

Chad Ingram Staff reporter

Algonquin Highlands Councillor Gary Schultz is weighing his options.

Schultz, councillor for Ward 3, will be making a decision about his political future in the township in the next week or so.

Last month he sold the Algonquin Lakeside Inn on Oxtongue Lake, the business he's owned and operated for the past decade or so.

We'd always envisioned selling our business at some point," Schultz told the paper in a phone interview, adding that opportunity had arisen sooner than expected. "Someone came up and said, 'I would like your business."

Things had to move quickly so the new owners might maximize the year, Schultz said.

Right now, he is taking some time to regroup and is unsure what his future might hold.

Minden Hills trucks vandalized during Canada Day weekend

Chad Ingram

Staff reporter

A number of Minden Hills township's vehicles were vandalized during the Canada Day long weekend.

Haliburton Highlands OPP are investigating after someone damaged trucks parked near the S.G. Nesbitt Memorial Arena the night of July 2.

Township community services director Rick Cox said four or the township's trucks were scratched and had their windows and lights smashed and that the pump on the township's watering trailer was also damaged.

"It wasn't only our trucks," Cox said, adding a contractor's truck parked at the site was also hit.

One township truck was left unscathed.

While he said he hadn't got the bills, Cox estimated the cost of labour and parts for the repairs would total about

He said the cemetery at Twelve Mile Lake Church was also vandalized during the weekend, with someone carving into one of the memorial benches there.

The cemetery has been vandalized in the past.

Recently, in conjunction with The Minden Kinsmen Club, the Haliburton ATV Association held its second Annual Mud Bog as well as a free youth training session for children eight to 13 years old. There were 45 children who took the course and had a great time, all future ambassadors for the sport in Haliburton County.

At the Mud Bog HATVA raised about $1,800 for the Kinsmen Club. There were 55 riders, 12 of whom were women, taking part in this fun-filled experience. The riders came from as far away as North Bay, Niagara Falls, Windsor and the GTA. HATVA gave out over $7,000 in prizes. We want to thank our sponsors and all the helpers who made the day such a success.

Prentice Power Sports was the sponsor for the youth training session, providing four ATVs and a certified instructor. Bhagan Custom Creations was the main sponsor of the event, providing thousands of dollars' worth of prizes. HATVA is very grateful for this continued support of ATV related activities in Haliburton. We are also grateful to the Kinsmen Club for hosting this event. Tom Prentice & Sons Trucking and Excavating dug the pit and the Minden Fire Department filled it with water. Thomas Francis Contracting Ltd. donated the use of their water truck. This success was a team effort by local volunteers and generous sponsors.

The winners in the modified under 600 cc category were Trevor Warner (first); Paul Devitt (second) and Adam Carr

In the modified 600 plus category winners were Jay Warner (first), Steve Turner (second) and Bent Toys (third)

In the stock under 600 category Conner Verschuuren placed first and Scott Verschuuren placed second.

In the stock 600 plus category first place went to Bent Toys, second place to Carlson Sports and third place to

In the Ladies' Open, Katherine Turner placed first, Melissa Devitt second and Melinda German third.

We look forward to next year's event. If participation rises as it did this year, we have a real hit on our hands.

Long weekend fatality

A Brampton man is dead after a single-vehicle collision in Algonquin Highlands township on July 2. Adams Richard, 27, was killed after a car struck a tree along Little Hawk Lake Road near its intersection with Braeloch Road. The collision happened at approximately 4:50 p.m. The road was closed for a number of hours. Another man was injured in the collision and treated for non-lifethreatening injuries. At press time, Haliburton Highlands OPP were still investigating the collision.

Minden Hills opens boardwalk

Chad Ingram Staff reporter

Federal, provincial and local political brass were on hand outside the Minden Hills Cultural Centre the morning of July 1 to celebrate the opening of the township's new boardwalk.

The boardwalk, which connects Invergordon Avenue to the cultural centre, is the last major phase of the township's Riverwalk project.

Reeve Barb Reid began her remarks by acknowledging the work of the previous Minden Hills council, which spring-boarded the Riverwalk project, as well as the Riverwalk committee – Minden Hills deputy-clerk Laura Cunliffe, Deputy-reeve Cheryl Murdoch and county engineer Roy Haig – for their vision and commitment.

Referencing her recent trip to Africa, Reid said she'd seen in Kenya and Tanzania a lack of infrastructure stemming from governments' inability to cooperate.

The success of the Riverwalk showed just the opposite.

"You start to see what happens when you have different . . . levels of government that can work together," Reid said.

That the feds and the provincial government had each spent nearly $730,000 on the Riverwalk project and numerous upgrades to the S.G. Nesbitt Memorial Arena, the reeve said, demonstrated that Minden is a community worth investing in.

"Congratulations to our entire community on this fantastic achievement," Reid said.

Familiar face takes reins at Rotary

Chad Ingram

Staff reporter

The new president of the Minden Rotary Club has some innovative ideas for the future.

"Jello wrestling would be a perfect fellowship activity for Rotarians, I think," Molly McInerney jokes, seated in the dining room of her Bobcaygeon Road bistro. "I don't think every meeting . . . just special occasions."

McInerney, a small, fiery woman with a contagious case of optimism, took the reins from predecessor Dennis Casey at a meeting last week and will head up the local club for the next year.

"Wills and Kate didn't show up . . . I thought they would have," she says, adding that the royal couple is off her Christmas card list.

She is headed into her sixth year with the local branch of the worldwide organization.

"Dad was a Rotarian," says McInerney, who was raised in Minden.

Her father, Clarence, must have been president of the club at one point, she says, since she remembers playing with the Rotary bell he kept at the insurance and real estate office he operated.

McInerney joined the club when she moved back from Peterborough after years of working in advertising.

"When I came back, I wanted to get back into the community," she said, adding that since some people she knew were already members. Rotary seemed like a good fit.

McInerney said she's been amazed at the donations that come in for the club's dinner and auction fundraiser each year.

"The community is so generous," she said, adding she's enjoyed being part of the club's various events over the years. "Art in the village was a lovely event . . . but it was too much physical work for everybody."

This year the club is serving up something new, a bluegrass festival, which will open at the Minden fairgrounds this weekend, July 15 through 17.

"I think this bluegrass event is going to be just phenomenal," McInerney says.

The club hosts numerous fundraising activities, digging up funds for various projects, including recently some new gardens along Water Street.

"A lot of things wouldn't happen if it wasn't for the service clubs," McInerney says. "All service clubs."

The club's membership is sitting at just 17 and the new president says she'd like to get that number to at least 20, or, ideally, twice that.

"A lot of the perception is that you have to be there every single [meeting] and you don't," she says, adding the old image that Rotary clubs are for stodgy old businessmen is

Along with her new duties as president, McInerney will continue to be the in-house songwriter, whereby she takes popular songs "and destroys them and changes the words to make them go along with Rotary."

She's revamped 80 or so tunes in such fashion, which the club has consolidated into a songbook.

'We enjoy ourselves," McInerney says. "I think that's why I stay on . . . because it's fun."

"First of all, it's just to recover from the shock of if," he said, explaining the resort had also been his family's home. "We're all gathering and trying to understand what's going on. It's thrown us a real curve ball."

There have been rumours circulating that Schultz has purchased a resort in Costa Rica and while he said it was true he recently visited that country on vacation, he has not yet purchased another resort.

His plan is to purchase another business, either in this area, another province or another country.

"I don't know what my future plans are," said Schultz, currently living with family.

He has turned in his fire gear at the Oxtongue Lake fire hall where he's served for eight years, but said that does not necessarily mean he is resigning.

"I just tendered notice that I wouldn't be able to attend," Schultz said. "We've been doing some very intensive train-

He didn't feel he'd be able to sustain attendance throughout the summer.

As far as his role as councillor, Schultz said he plans to make a decision before council's next scheduled meeting on July 21, where he will make an announcement.

'You don't need people unsure," he said.

If Schultz does resign, the township clerk will present councillors with options they can take with regards to a replacement.

While a belection is one option, the township has no money budgeted for such.

Another option would allow councillors to appoint a replacement.

Ward 3 encompasses Oxtongue Lake and areas south.

Schultz defeated incumbent Diane Griffin in the October election, with 378 votes to her 197.

Minden Hills township is selling its old one.

Councillors resolved at their June 30 meeting to advertise the township's old pumper truck using online classified sites in an attempt to sell the 20-year-old fire department vehicle.

'Somebody might want it," said Reeve Barb Reid. "It's a pretty unique item."

Fire chief Doug Schell has said he hopes the vehicle might fetch $5,000 or more.

In a memo to council, Schell wrote that posting on classified sites would cost about $300 and while there are not funds allocated for the expense, he would look for the money within his department's budget.

Some Minden businesses close, others remain optimistic

Chad Ingram

Staff reporter

A number of Minden businesses have their closed their doors recently, but members of the business community are keeping an optimistic outlook.

Last month, downtown's Crowne Gallery and The DAM Music Shop closed and before that, the windows at Dixie Lee Chicken and Sunny Variety went dark.

"I found there was not very much foot traffic," said Marc Schroetter, who'd operated the Crowne Gallery - an art and art supply shop - since 2008. "It was very difficult to draw people to downtown."

Schroetter said he made the overwhelming majority of his income during the summer months and wasn't sure that permanent residents of the area had enough disposal income to support his specialty business.

He thought downtown merchants could do themselves a favour by extending their hours during the tourist season.

"Nobody was open late," Schroetter said, adding he thought this prompted a lot of people to choose Haliburton Village instead.

The artist said the community should make more use of the Gull River as an attraction.

"The use of the river is not completely taken advantage of," he said, adding there are other small communities that better integrate their rivers and streams into their lifeblood.

David Moffatt ran The DAM Music Shop for 14 months.

Moffatt said he found doing business in Minden just fine and noted it was personal circumstances that forced him to close his store.

However, he did have suggestions for the business com-

"They need to decide what their identity is," Moffatt said, explaining if Minden is going to be a tourist town, it needs to go all out in becoming such and be more accommodating to those passing through and to seasonal residents.

"Everything here is divided," he said. "Be more accommodating.

The township and the business community also need to do a better job of working together, so merchants might benefit more from township events and vice versa.

"I think the township should accommodate what the community wants," Moffatt said. "I think there's a huge disconnect between the township and the community.'

He said things as simple as renovating building facades and cleaning up sidewalks could go a long way in improving the business climate downtown.

Earlier this year, carver Walter vanderWindt moved his family's Goofy Moose boutique from the downtown location it had occupied for a number of years to his Carving Studio in Moore Falls.

VanderWindt, who opened the Goofy Moose on Bobcaygeon Road in the fall of 2007, had no complaints about the business climate in downtown Minden.

Sure, after the recession hit, he saw his winter sales dip to about a third of what they had been, but his summer sales were consistently climbing, to the point where they were making up 70 per cent of the business's income.

"Those two months were amazing," vanderWindt said. "I know for a fact I will not get the numbers [in Moore Falls] I did downtown."

For him, the move was mostly about simplicity and getting both businesses under one roof.

Dominion Hotel and Grill on the Gull owner Shawn Chamberlin said he'd experienced a slow spring, but couldn't put his finger on the reason.

"If I knew that, I'd be able to pick a horse," he said.

While there was likely no single reason, Chamberlin believes the area is still feeling the effects of the economic downturn, which may have taken their time working their way from urban centres to more removed communities.

However, Chamberlin was optimistic about the summer season and Minden's downtown in general.

"I think things are on track," he said. "The town looks really pretty.

Chamberlin credited the Minden and District Horticultural Society for all the work it does with the planters and hanging baskets downtown.

Like Moffatt, Chamberlin said things might improve, "if we change our attitude a bit."

"Stop honking horns," he said, adding that leaving downtown parking spaces vacant for visitors as well as simply smiling at people are small things locals can do to help keep downtown thriving.

"Apparently it's been a rough winter up here," said Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce interim director Dennis Casey, noting that along with Minden businesses, a couple in Haliburton Village - 212 and Henwood's Variety - had recently closed their doors. "Of course we're con-

However, a recent survey by the chamber revealed there is a fair amount of optimism within the county's business community and that many business owners are saying they'd like to expand their businesses.

"All we can do is keep going," Casey said.

The Ohhm Beauty Boutique has relocated from Haliburton village to Minden, the River Cone has reopened under new owners and the Wild Orchid Thai restaurant has also reopened its doors.

He'll also perform any number of odd jobs.

"Just the little things that need to be done," Jack puts it. Jack has been golfing for a long time, since he was two or three, he explains.

His dad is a professional golf instructor and Jack explains part of the Uxbridge property where the family makes its home was converted into a four-hole course.

Last summer, Jack started teaching lessons to children seven or under.

Four-year-old abstract artist finds market in Minden

Chad Ingram

Staff reporter

A gallery south of Minden is displaying the works of a new and upcoming artist.

Very new and upcoming.

Jaden vanderWindt is just four years old and is the son of woodcarver Walter vanderWindt, owner of the Carving Gallery in Moore Falls

Walter explained that after watching a documentary about abstract art, he'd done some Googling of abstract techniques.

[Jaden] was very interested in it," he said. "He said, 'I'm going to do a painting.' I was like, why not?"

So, father and son began playing with paint during the

On sheets of wood of various sizes, Walter would paint a solid background using one or two colours.

Then he'd give Jaden tubes or spoons of paint and let him

"He just pours, splatters," Walter said.

They've added other techniques, too, such as pressing the paint with bubble wrap and using scrapers.

'Í give some direction," Walter said, explaining he'll help with colour selection and stop the process before it goes too far. "I make sure it doesn't end up brown."

What about the critics who would inevitably say that what Jaden does can't be art because he is only four years

"Every child is an artist," Walter said, reciting a Pablo Picasso quote. "The problem is how to remain an artist once he grows up."

Jaden's unbridled imagination has allowed him to go in directions his father would never have considered.

Walter explained that after Jaden had been throwing paint with a spoon, he went up to his canvass and began splattering the blobs he'd created.

"Afterwards I though, oh cool," Walter said.

Jaden has already sold some of his paintings and a number of his works are hanging in Moore Falls's Summer Kiss restaurant

His paintings sell from $5 to $90.

Outside the gallery, Jaden was busy playing with a plastic dump truck.

Shy at first, after some coaxing, he began demonstrating what he does with paint, how he uses a scraper and that his favourite colour is blue.

What does he intend to do with the money from his paintings?

Local home inspector on provincial board

Chad Ingram

Staff reporter

A local home inspector has been named to the board of directors of the Ontario Association of Home Inspectors.

Pam Sayne of Know Your Home Inspections Inc. became a member of the association's eight-member board of directors in the spring and was attending her third board meeting in Mississauga this week.

"Anybody can decide to be a home inspector," Sayne said. "They just have to hang up a shingle. There really aren't any criteria to determine what the standards are."

That's where the association comes in.

Since it was formed in 1987, it has been striving to set standards for home inspection and is the agency that approves individuals as registered home inspectors.

The process of becoming an RHI is not a simple one.

"First is many courses in all the major fields we cover,"

Sayne said, explaining these includes electrical, plumbing, structural and other issues.

Prospective inspectors must then pass an exam, a defect recognition course and another exam after that.

Assessments from the first several homes inspected are submitted to the association, some are scrutinized at random and, if everything is up to snuff, then certification is granted.

Sayne said being a home inspector is a process of constant education, since there are always new safety regulations and technologies to learn.

A career in adult education, where she assisted people with household management, as well as years in property management eventually led Sayne to get certified as a home inspector.

She started up her own business in 1998.

"It's wonderful to be able to teach people about how their home works," she said. "It's the biggest investment we

Tennis for youth

Learning a new sport can be the beginning of a lifetime

In Minden, John Kerr is introducing one special sport to youth ages 10 to 16 this summer.

We're teaching them the game of tennis and how to play," says Kerr, who has been playing for 20 years.

"I'm 80 years old, but I play five days a week," Kerr says. Through Minden Hills township, two months of tennis lessons are being offered for $20 to any youth interested. No equipment is necessary, no experience is necessary.

The lessons take advantage of recently renovated courts, which were originally installed by the Minden Rotary Club, of which Kerr is a member.

Lessons are offered Tuesdays and Thursdays at 10:30 a.m. Youth can attend both or either of the morning lessons on a drop-in basis.

For more information, contact Alexis David at Minden Hills 705-286-1936 or come out to a tennis lesson.

Boardwalk to be plowed in winter

She told the paper it was the township's intention to keep the boardwalk plowed during the winter months for year-round access.

Former Minden Hills reeve Jim McMahon also said a few words, pointing out the previous council had undertaken the Riverwalk project with a focus on healthy communities.

MP Barry Devolin said he'd seen a string of projects in Minden in recent years that had done much to beautify the village and MPP Rick Johnson said the community had gone in the right direction with the Riverwalk project.

"These types of facilities will promote healthy living," Johnson said.

Landscape architect Brian Basterfield, who designed the boardwalk, was also present.

Basterfield said the marshy terrain the boardwalk traverses offers excellent birding opportunities

"It's these pieces of the infrastructure puzzle that really make a community sing," he said.

The total cost for the Riverwalk project – which consists of the lighted walking path along the Gull River, two pedestrian bridges and the new boardwalk along with landscaping, sculptures and other improvements – and the arena renovations – including new lighting, cooling system, entrances and other upgrades – was more than $2.1 million dollars.

The Riverwalk project constitutes approximately $1.5 million of that.

Two thirds of the money for the projects came from the federal and provincial governments through stimulus funding while one third came from the township.

Minden Hills used $260,910 of its gas tax fund gas tax fund allocation plus another $466,910.

MP Barry Devolin speaks at the opening of Minden Hills's boardwalk on July 1. The boardwalk is the last major phase of the township's Riverwalk project, which received funding from the federal and provincial governments.

Minden Hills councillors will be approving meeting minutes before they appear on the township's website

At council's June 30 meeting, Deputy-reeve Cheryl Murdoch expressed dismay that comments she'd made at the preface of the June 9 committee-of-the-whole criticizing Reeve Barb Reid and the former members of her Vision 2010 Team had appeared in the draft minutes from the meeting.

Murdoch said she'd made the comments before open session had begun and wanted them removed from the minutes.

If the meeting hadn't started, Reid requested that the part of the minutes reporting councillors Larry Clarke and Ken Redpath had left the meeting also be removed, since they had technically left before the meeting commenced.

"I also learned these minutes appeared on our township website before they were even approved by council,"Reid said, adding that councillors had discussed the issue during their closed session that morning and had agreed meeting minutes should be posted publicly after council approval.

Chief administrative officer Gerry Morrison said it had been standard practice in the township for many years that draft minutes from meetings were posted on the township website prior to council approval.

"I think we want to avoid the situation where a member of council sees the minutes and realizes there's been an error and wants to have that corrected," Reid said.

Councillors agreed the requested changes be made to the June 9 minutes and that in the future, council would approve minutes before they are posted online.

Please be careful

PP PRESS RELEASES regarding car and boat collisions have been pouring into the paper's email account with alarming regularity in the past two weeks or so.

On Monday alone, I attended the scenes of two car collisions near Minden.

During the weekend, there was a fatal boating accident on Lake of Bays and the weekend before, a young man died when the car he was travelling in slammed into a tree on Little Hawk Lake Road.

At the risk of sounding like a broken record, please, dear readers, for the love of whatever it is you hold sacred, be careful when travelling.

It's no secret roads in the county are far busier this time of year than any other.

And a recent blitz by the cops has shown that many people, despite laws to the contrary, are still talking or texting on cellular devices as they drive.

I realize that some people have become so addicted to their smart phones that they have become like appendages, not that I personally would know what that's like.

Turn them off. Put them in your glove compartment. You can do it.

It's public perception

Regarding submission by Reeve Reid in the June 22 issue of the Minden Times.

The problem isn't so much what you and your council have done - it's public perception as to how blatantly undemocratically your decisions are being made. I cannot recall one decision where the vote was anything other than 4-3. Has there been any other vote count? Always a vote 4-3; never 6-1, never 5-2, never unanimous, never any abstentions or shades of grey in your decisions. What's more, those amongst the four are always the same people as are those amongst the three! How stupid do you think, we the people, are?

One wonders how it can be that every vote all the time, every time, by the same people on either side are always 4-3. Are you fixing to railroad your ideas through with the tyranny of the majority vote alone? Voting such as you are suggests decisions which are being made with no attempt at consensus, no nice quite chats, no sober second thought, no compromise.

Why remove railing?

To the Editor,

How much did it cost to bring a company up from Kingston to remove the decorative metal railing spanning the creek on Water Street where the little "rustyc" - not a typo: those who've seen it know what I mean bridge is?

Was the property owner next to it made aware that the entire front of her lawn would be spanned by a giant corrugated steel crash bar terminating in a giant corrugated steel drum?

I'm sure readers are familiar with the number of times I've written in about that very spot, long known for its history of street races and cars plunging into the depths of the 15-foot wide creek below, so thank goodness we now have these honking huge steel crash barriers to protect us!

Honestly, where is your collective head, councillors!?

Minden Hills adopts property standards

Chad Ingram

Staff reporter

Minden Hills councillors approved a property standards bylaw for the township at their June 30 meeting.

The bylaw, which lays out aesthetic and safety requirements for all properties within the township, is based largely on a bylaw Dysart et al has had in place for several years.

The section laying out standards for yards, for example, reads as follows:

"Every yard, including vacant lots, shall be kept clean and free from:

Rubbish or debris and objects or conditions that may create a health, fire or accident hazard including old, used or discarded building materials;

Unlicensed, wrecked, dismantled discarded or abandoned machinery, vehicles, trailers or boats unless it is necessary for the operation of a business enterprise lawfully situated on the property;

(3) Long grass, brush, undergrowth and noxious weeds as defined by the Weed Control Act:

Dilapidated, collapsed or partially constructed structures which are not currently under construction."

There are numerous other sections, dealing with everything from sewage and drainage to parking areas and driveways to roofs to guard rails and kitchens.

Some of the stipulations are incredibly specific.

For example, the plumbing sections reads that "hot water shall be supplied at a temperature of not less than 43 degrees Celsius."

The section dealing with driveways requires that "all areas used for vehicular traffic and parking shall have a surface covering of asphalt, concrete or compacted stone or gravel and shall be kept in good repair free of dirt and litter."

Check out our website and photo gallery

One member of the public during public question period said it was likely his property violated the bylaw in dozens of ways.

The man was reassured by councillors that the bylaw, which is complaint-driven, would be exercised in a common sense fashion.

The compliance section of the bylaw reads as follows:

"The owner of any property which does not conform to the standards as set out in this bylaw shall repair and/or maintain said property to comply with the standards or the property shall be cleared of all buildings, structures, debris or refuse and left in a levelled and graded condition."

The township has formed a property standards committee, which will review complaints and hear appeals.

At their meeting last week, councillors appointed Rick Ratcliff, Ron Buchanan and Larry Burke to the committee.

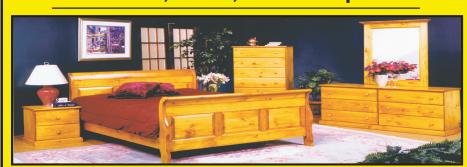

Council also passed a bylaw granted that any open compliant cases from the township's clean and clear bylaw be transferred to the purview of the property standards bylaw without the complainant having to resubmit their complaint.

Dysart's current property standards bylaw has been in place since 2001, but the township has had such regulations since the 1980s.

A very sad tail

OMETIMES, after I'm finished browsing the Internet, I'm left with the distinct impression that we have unleashed a monster. There are things online that are so horrid and morally reprehensible that I can only watch them two or three times. Back in the good old days, these things would have been banished to the dark and unseemly places in which they were spawned or, failing that, Pay-Per-View.

Yesterday, topped it for me. That's when I discovered a video that was even too much for my jaded sensibilities. It was so awful that it made me give serious consideration to swearing off online browsing forever. Just watching it made

Yes, I'm talking about the infamous toddler chewing on cat's tail video. How I found it is of no real concern. Suffice it an Internet search gone very wrong.

In case you haven't yet been subjected to it, the parents of a toddler took and posted a video of their kid chewing on the tail of a cat. I'm no child psychologist, but even I know this is

For one thing, it's highly unsanitary. No doubt that thing has probably spent plenty of time in a litter box and, at one time of another, had poop or urine stuck to it too - but enough about the toddler.

What about the cat? As we know, felines work very hard to keep clean. Toddlers, on the other hand, do not - as evidenced by the fact that they'll chew to say that this is yet another example of on the first cat's tail that passes within easy reach. This begs the question, is it fair or humane to do this to a cat?

The answer is probably no.

More to the point, I worry about the child. After all, the terrible twos are impressionable times. What we learn in those formative years could follow you for the rest of your life. And, if you were allowed to develop a habit of gnawing on cat tails, you're not likely to be asked to hang out with the cool kids.

Besides, I'd hate for that poor kid to grow up thinking that this sort of thing was acceptable or even safe. Habits like this can grow with the child and soon housecat tails might not be enough. If so, I shudder to think of how that first school trip to African Lion Safari ends up.

Here's another thing. What is it with people and their video cameras these days? Why is it that instead of helping out in a situation like this, they feel the need to record it in order to show everyone else?

Not that long ago, a parent would have been horrified by the sight of their kid chewing on a raw cat. They might have even told the kid that this was not acceptable and traded in the old cat for a Manx.

Now, we just post it on the Internet. Call me old-fashioned, but this type of thing leaves a bad taste in my mouth.

EING A FAN OF THE CBC is something like rooting for the Toronto Maple Leafs. Loyalty is built on nostalgia for the way things used to be and a yearning for the day they will be that way again.

But all the glory that once was Peter Gzowski and Max Ferguson is frayed and faded now and on some days on Sapsucker Ridge, The Brown Dog Jiggs and I can hardly bear listening to it.

There is, of course, an important difference between the CBC and the Maple Leafs. The hockey team has so much money it doesn't have to spend it wisely. The national broadcaster is so starved for cash that it can barely stay

For Jiggs and me, the part of the CBC that matters most is its mainstream radio network, Radio One. We have been thinking about what to say to the regulator considering its application to renew its licence.

Perhaps we would begin by lamenting its capacity for disappointing us so often by sounding like under-rehearsed college radio and annoying us with regional programming that seems to proclaim:

"We're from Toronto and you're not. Don't you wish you lived on Queen Street?"

If, instead, you live in the part of the Gull River valley that runs through Minden, I may have lost you by now, just as you lost the CBC signal years ago.

You need to get into your car and drive up the hill to Prentuskoka Heights to pull in a clear signal on your car radio. A simple drive from Norland to Haliburton Village keeps my finger dancing across four buttons on my truck radio to escape the static and find out that a bicycle ran into a streetcar on Queen Street.

Do you suppose that if a moose ran into a streetcar on Buller Road, that would make the hourly news? Not likely, although some of us up here might wonder where the streetcar came

In Ontario, the CBC is a Toronto radio station. The rest of us just listen in for readings from the Toronto police blotter, to news of traffic jams in Mississauga and to musicians who will appear at Hugh's Room in October.

No matter that the band will be playing in Napanee tomorrow night. Hugh's Room is a kind of metaphor for the kind of self-absorption of the big-city hipsters who fill the broadcast hours.

The signal comes in strong and clear on Sapsucker Ridge, but it often makes us feel as though we are listening in on lives that have nothing to do with our own.

If something happens in Petawawa or Pontypool, CBC listeners will be the last to hear about it. An understaffed weekday morning show tries to reach out, but its grasp rarely extends much past London and

Neil Campbell

How much does the part of Ontario that is not Toronto matter to the CBC? Once upon a time it had one of North America's handful of clear-channel AM frequencies, which meant that it boomed into rural Ontario.

That signal, on 740, still booms into Minden, but it belongs to a private broadcaster, traded away for an FM frequency that Toronto could listen to, static-free. Static is good enough for Minden, evidently.

Once upon a time, the CBC's main radio network used to bind this country together just as surely as the railway did before radio came along.

Its national programming still has its moments, but much of the time it just totters along, running the same programs over and over again, filling our summer evenings with rebroadcasts of repeats.

Soon it will be all Randy Bachman's Vinyl Tap, all the time. For now, Friday, Saturday, Sunday. Every weekend. One original show, three time slots.

So what Jiggs and I would say to the regulator about Radio One? First, the CBC should hire some managers who understand that there is a world beyond Oueen Street

Second, call to account the whole series of governments, both Liberal and Conservative, for trying to starve into oblivion this broadcast service that once made us proud instead of annoyed.

Neil Campbell will be at Stanhope Heritage Day on Saturday with his book, Cell Phones and Sap Buckets. Drop by the Stanhope Museum Grounds, 1123 North Shore Road, between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m., to say hello.

Take a (River)walk

ULY 1 WAS A VICTORIOUS DAY for Minden Hills, and not just for hosting another successful Canada Day celebration.

Last Friday saw the opening of the township's boardwalk, which stretches across the marshy terrain between Invergordon Avenue and the Minden Hills Cultural Centre.

The boardwalk is the final major phase of the township's Riverwalk project and is the culmination of years of hard work by councillors and staff members, present and past.

The Riverwalk project represents a continuity between the previous and current Minden Hills councils and it was nice to see all members of the current council as well as the former reeve at the ceremony last Friday.

It seems the Riverwalk is something everyone can agree is beneficial for Minden Hills, or at least it should be.

I know there are some anti-Riverwalk folks out there - perhaps some of you, dear readers.

I've heard the arguments and they're not bad.

The big one seems to be that the project is a waste of money since it sits under snow or water for half the year.

While it's certainly true that Riverwalk's walking path is submerged for part of the year, the beautiful stroll it offers during the other months, to me, at least, seems to compensate.

And the Riverwalk project hasn't really cost the township that much,

if one puts it in perspec-

With the federal and provincial governments paying two thirds of up to $1.5 million in costs, when all is said and done, the township has gotten a fantastic piece of infrastructure, that will be there for generations, for half a million bucks or so.

With the boardwalk (which the reeve says the townships intends to keep plowed in the winter) added to the loop, Riverwalk offers a scenic and completely accessible pedestrian tour of a pretty part of Minden.

The project also focuses people's eyes back on the river, which should be Minden's main marketing asset.

It's beautiful. It's why Minden exists in the first place.

I'd encourage naysayers of the project to take a walk of both the pathway and the boardwalk on a nice day or evening and see if they still feel it's a waste.

To the Editor,

All private landowners beware: you may be next.

Trespassing ATVs, motorcycles, hunters and littering have always been a continuing problem and that has now escalated

On Saturday, June 25, while we were away at work, several off-road trucks/jeeps/fourwheel-drive vehicles blatantly opened up a private, posted gate and tore through part of our wildlife management unit. In just a few hours, they managed to destroy what has taken years to create.

Smoking in bed is being blamed for igniting a $100,000 blaze that damaged a home northeast of Burnt River late Sunday morning.

Firefighters, called about 11:15 a.m. from divisions in Burnt River, Kinmount and Baddow, arrived to find smoke coming from the roof of the home at 95 Pinery Rd. east of Burnt River Road.

Crews knocked down the flames within minutes and the man home at the time made it outside safely.

Fire damage was contained to the bedroom where the fire started but there was smoke and water damage throughout building, Kawartha Lakes Fire Rescue Service assistant chief Ron Raymer said at the scene.

The man, who suffers from a physical handicap, was in bed when his cigarette set the bedding ablaze, he said.

Damage was estimated at $50,000 to the building and $50,000 to its contents, he said. Victoria County Disaster Relief Trust Fund officials were called to the scene.

Long live me

HIS MORNING, ON OUR LOCAL RADIO, I heard a report that said, very soon, it's possible that average human life expectancy will increase substantially.

Apparently, genetic therapy, better medical care and procedures, and a host of other technologies might make is possible for many of us to live well past 150.

I'm no expert on these things, but – if this morning is any indication – I suspect that this is a natural evolutionary response to the amount of time we waste wading through all those voice mail options.

I might be wrong, but I figure in any given year, I spend approximately 11.9 months figuring out what option I need to press before I can speak to the person who was hired to direct me to yet another lengthy voice mail menu.

The rest of my time, I figure, is squandered waiting to use the washroom.

I want that time back.

In fact, like anyone who isn't being water boarded or forced to watch reruns of Oprah, I'm excited by the prospect of a longer life.

Given another hundred years, even I have a chance at becoming fully proficient using my satellite remote control.

I'm sure there are other good reasons too.

But while I look forward to wearing my favourite underwear well into the next century, I also recognize that this will mean big changes – unless, of course, they find a cure for incontinence.

On the plus side, if we all live to these ripe old ages, we'll actually have time to do the things we want to do. We'll have time to read that book we always put off.

Heck, we'll have time to read the instructions for toasters, if we want.

There are a plethora of things to look forward to, in fact. For instance, if all goes well, I may live to see the day when I get a meaningful raise.

Ah who am I kidding? I might be better to plan for this. That's why I'm thinking of creating a company that builds custom park benches and pigeon-feeding leisurewear.

If that goes well, I'll probably diversify into producing a stylish line of white knee socks and sandals with matching walkers.

As nice as all this sounds, I believe there will be a downside too – the Sports

Illustrated Geriatric Swimsuit Edition immediately comes to mind. Then, there is the spectre of your kids dropping off your 55-year-old grandkids for the weekend.

Even so, my attitude towards all this echoes Woody Allen's famous saying, "I'm not afraid of dying; I just don't want to be there when it happens."

Because of that, I'm cheering the researchers on and hoping that they get their life lengthening ducks all in a row.

I mean, this could really be great. It could mean that I get to see the world, fly to the moon, catch up on my emails and more.

Maybe, I'll even live to see the day when cars fly. I just hope I don't see it from the passenger's seat as my 145 year-old buddy dozes off at the wheel as we drive over a cliff.

HEY THERE, JIGGS! WHERE HAVE YOU BEEN? For a while there, I was afraid you ran away to join the

Or so I would tell The Brown Jiggs in the reckless days of his youth, when he would come home sodden and mudsplattered after two hours of chasing something or other.

The way I figured it, he'd start out after a deer and lose that race in about six bounds, follow the trail of a coon for a while, and then go stand in water up to his chest in some distant pond and bark at geese.

When he was all worn out, he'd come home and there would be a bow and a wag and then he'd go inside and drink an awful lot of water.

To tell the truth, he would have looked a little silly in one of those sailor suits anyhow. Now I know where he really went. He probably hopped a plane and flew off somewhere to interfere in a revolution.

You see, for four years now The Brown Dog, or a dog who looks quite a bit like him, has been meddling in Greek affairs, putting itself between the lines of riot police and protesters.

Jiggs, or his lookalike, started showing up in photographs of the Athens riots in 2008. Protesters feed and pet the dog. Somebody called it Loukanikos (Sausage) and the legend grew.

I am not a Facebook kind of fellow, so I don't know any of this until The Globe and Mail runs a full page of pictures of the interfering bowser.

There the dog is, barking imprecations at one battle line of police shields, dancing in a burst of tear gas, curled up on the pavement before another line of riot police. Cute!

The dog might be Jiggs. Its coat is the right reddish-sand colour with white markings and its legs are long enough. In some photos its muzzle looks stubby; in others it is collie-long and narrow.

In one photo, the dog looks just like Jiggs, sleeping flat on its side with a red ribbon marking a police line draped over its shoulders.

The Globe says the dog is a stray but the dog in the photos always has a collar. In Canada, a dog wearing a collar usually belongs to somebody.

In Athens, strays are vaccinated and neutered, given a collar to show they have been treated, and turned loose again. Vaccinating and neutering strays? No wonder Greece is broke! And good for them, by the way. For the Athens strays, a blue collar means male; red means female. And right blue collar means male; red means female. And right there is where the legend begins to collapse. Put aside the fact that the dog has prick ears in some photos, floppies in others.

The collar keeps changing colour! Dogs, especially strays, can't change their own collars. The legend is a kind of hoax, self-inflicted by the mainstream media.

Athens is full of stray dogs, I learn on the Internet, and the dog in the photos is a kind of composite of two or more dogs that keep showing up for the riots.

Or so say independent web sites, scorned by media professionals as unreliable. You can see the differences right there, once you look for them. So much for the old media as monopolizers of the truth. Never let facts get in the way of a good story.

As for The Brown Dog, his youthful roamings probably took him no further than the next concession line. He can get himself in enough trouble without going all the way to Athens.

Sometimes he even gets other dogs into trouble. The other day, for example, he gets a new pal named Gaston mixed up with a porcupine.

The Brown Dog was born understanding that chasing porcupines might be good sport but it is no fun catching them. Gaston, a Jack Russell Terrier about the size of Jiggs' head, didn't get the memo.

Just out of sight in the shrubbery, Gaston watches The Brown Dog barks a porky up a tree.

"Why don't you just grab it?" says Gaston and then he tries doing that himself. It takes two strong men to pull the quill out of his front paw.

ELEVATED WATER TOWER – NOTICE TO MINDEN WATER SYSTEM USERS

Please be advised the commissioning of the elevated water tower took place on June 27th, 2011. late in the day. We anticipate the process to take approximately 15 days. During the commissioning of the elevated water tower we ask businesses and residents on the water system to attempt to conserve as much water as possible.

PLEASE NOTE:

Distribution system pressures will be increased by 15-20 psi and that any leaking or suspect plumbing in respective homes should be repaired as soon as possible. Repairs will be at the owner's expense. Users of the Minden Water System should ensure they have someone to check their homes (plumbing) if they are going to be out of town.

If any further adjustment in timelines needs to be made during the switch over of the elevated water tower, we will do our utmost to advise users via the local radio stations, newspapers and the township website.

We apologize to all users of the Minden Water System for any inconvenience that this may cause during the start up and commissioning of the elevated water tower.

Road ruined as a result of trespassing

They drove through and ruined several newly planted clover plots, pitched garbage out everywhere and ruined our road. The road is going to require hours of repair with a backhoe or bulldozer.

There is a group of people in our society who have a total lack of respect for private property, their fellow human beings and the environment.

Just the fact that they throw garbage everywhere speaks volumes about their lack of intelligence.

The OPP have been informed and they are aware of the property and other properties in the area that have been attacked. There is a reward for anyone with information leading to criminal charges against these individuals. The damage was done to the property on Beer Lake Road at the end of the Scotch Line, West.

If anyone on the hydro road witnessed the vehicle stuck in the marsh on our property or the vehicles being trailered to and from the turnaround, please contact

Do off-roading trucks/jeeps destroy land? Absolutely!

They leave a huge footprint of damage behind. The public trail has unfortunately encourage littering, marijuana growing, pollution and environmental damage and trespassing on private lands.

Move fire department to highway

I would like to propose that Minden council seriously consider moving the Minden fire department, trucks and equipment out on to the bypass to be included in the same structure as that of the new EMS. This is an amazing opportunity to improve these two essential services.

In a great many other municipalities and rural communities of the province of Ontario, it is now becoming mandatory and cost effective to house the two services under one roof.

As I see it, this would greatly decrease the response time. A side effect to the faster response time is the opportunity of possible reduced insurance premiums for the municipality, businesses

As I understand the Minden fire service now runs a far greater number of calls away from Minden, than they actually do in Minden proper.

As I understand the population of Minden Hills is about 2500 residents (full time), which swells to about 10,000 to 12,000 with the return of the seasonal residents. Some seasonal population will likely become full-time residents in the near future with the aging Baby Boomers soon to also retire. This is possible proof with the building department in both new developments, renovations of existing and new constructions.

I believe, it appears that the seasonal residents (especially waterfront) and business owners pay disproportionately more in taxes than the local residents. What do we get for this unwarranted tax

In closing, it is in my humble opinion that the life and property of all the municipality citizens/businesses in which that includes me and my family and that of my property are far more important than that of funding a swimming pool" in Haliburton at this given time of economic climate and municipal restraint. The greater good of funding for protecting/saving life and property should outweigh that of the proposed new recreational facility.

Financial Advice

Office of the Superintendent of Bankruptcy Canada (OSB) www.hhpt://osb-bfs ic.g.ca. They have developed 5 financial guides and 4 activity books a puzzle and a decision game. All to help parents/guardians and teachers teach children about money. The teaching tools were developed because the OBS is dedicated to teaching consumers of all ages about the importance of financial planning and upon reviewing the material I think they have done a very good job of it. From guide ages 7&8.

Learning to save with a bank account

The main goal of this section is to explain the importance of putting your child's savings into a bank account. Seven and eight-year-olds can also start to learn about other important concepts such as interest.

Watching a bank balance grow promotes a positive attitude to saving. Encourage your children to empty their piggy banks from time to time and put the money in the bank. Some children may resist this because it feels like they are losing their money. Taking the time to show them how their bank balance is growing should encourage them. Keeping specific savings goals in mind is another way to motivate them to deposit their savings.

Don't be afraid to let your child make a few impulse purchases. Making a few mistakes will probably teach your child even more about good saving habits.

The concept of saving

Most seven and eight-year-olds can easily understand the concept of savings. Most of them already have a piggy bank, which allows them to set money aside in a fun way. A simple way to help children understand the concept of saving is to describe it as money that has been put aside for a special purchase such as a new toy.

Once this simple idea is understood, you can talk about saving for more important goals. Relate these goals to your child's own experiences. For example, your child may have an older sibling who is saving for university or college. Your own goals, such as saving for a home renovation or a new car may also help your child see the more serious side to saving.

Kids need to understand the essentials of savings so they can develop a positive attitude about the money they set aside. It's important that seven and eight-yearolds don't start to see saving as a burden or something that denies them a chance to have fun. Emphasizing different kinds of saving — short term (for a new toy) versus longer term (holiday spending money) — can help kids focus on the fun side of saving.

lere is an activity that shows how to distinguish among different types of savings. Suggested activity: Spot the savings

Which things on the list below are savings?

- 1.A bag of candy
- 2. Money in a bank account
- 3. The money that your grandmother keeps in her safe
- 4. The money that your father leaves on his night table
- 5.A chequebook
- 6.Change in your piggy bank
- 7.A wallet
- 9.Rolls of coins ready to be deposited in your bank account

10.A credit card

Endodontists End Your Tooth Pain

Consider visiting an endodontist if you experience any of the following:

- You are considering extraction, but value your natural teeth, and would like options on how to save your teeth.
- Sensitivity or pain caused by hot or cold foods
- Constant tooth pain with swollen gums and sensitivity to touch
- Sharp tooth pain when biting down
- Continued sensitivity after a regular dental procedure
- Facial pain that may be related to your teeth

HHSS class of 2011 graduates

Jenn Watt

Editor

Wednesday's commencement ceremony was less a milestone along the path of life than a springboard propelling students into a future fueled by passion and social responsibility.

Big dreams are attainable, Haliburton Highlands Secondary School graduates were told June 29, you just have to plan for them.

Continue to commit yourselves to worthy goals," viceprincipal Irv Sternberg told the more than 100 graduating students. "Be respectful, stay committed and act responsibly."

To earn their diplomas, HHSS students attended 2,500

CO-OPERATIVE EDUCATION

"Learning From Experience"... "A Partnership That Works"

Co-operative Education is a program that integrates classroom theory with practical experience in the workplace, while providing the students with the opportunity to earn credits towards their Ontario Secondary School Diploma. Co-operative Education encourages a close association for students to work with our community partners who are willing to share their knowledge and expertise to provide a unique learning environment. Co-op programs have expanded due in large measure to the enthusiastic support given by businesses, allowing our students many opportunities to become involved in an extensive variety of opportunities and career experiences. The co-op students at HHSS would like to thank the following employers for their participation, time and interest in the education of our students. As the new co-op teacher at HHSS I would also like to extend much thanks to all of the invaluable co-op partnerships that exist in our community. Upwards of 50 HHSS students are placed in educational partnerships across our community from one semester to the next. What a fantastic accomplishment for everyone involved

"To the grads, I have a very short message," school board trustee Gary Brohman said in his speech. "What lies behind us and what lies ahead of us are tiny matters compared to what lives within us," he said, quoting philosopher Henry David Thoreau.

Following the diploma ceremony, the year's valedictorian Teghan Dodds tied it all together reminding her fellow classmates to live the rest of their lives being positive, passionate and proactive.

"Starting small is what will make a difference," she said, remembering the years of charity work, school spirit, sports and academics that transformed Hal High for her

And with that, the graduates of 2011 threw their rolled diplomas in the air and filed outside into the arms of their families and into their adult lives.

The Minden Kin Club would like to thank the following businesses and individuals who supported us and made it possible for us to put on our Truck pull / Show & Shine Sat June 18, 2011. Without their support the show would not go on and by doing so it also makes it possible for us to help with Community Projects in Haliburton County and the C.F. Foundation

Rosebush talks health care with local lake association

Laurie Langdon

Mountain Lake Property Owners' Association

Approximately 60 people gathered at the Peppermill Restaurant in June for the annual general meeting of the MLPOA. We got things started right on time, and were fortunate to have two excellent speakers this year.

Initially, Paul Rosebush, president and CEO of Haliburton Highlands Health Services (HHHS), reminded us that our 2 area hospitals both have 24/7 emergency departments staffed by out-of-county physicians who have been coming to work here for over 14 years, covering approximately 30,000 annual emergency room visits. The changing needs and aging population of Haliburton County have recently resulted in the creation of a new palliative care environment in the Haliburton hospital, and there are plans for further expansion. Our two long-term care facilities are attached to each hospital and between them total almost 100 beds, plus there are about 40 people in supported housing. HHHS contributes about $20 million to the local economy, employing roughly 250 people and serving the county's 16,000 permanent residents as well as seasonal residents. Future plans include additional seniors' care in conjunction with the region. Ultrasound testing is now set up in Haliburton, and CT scanning equipment is being requested. Paul left copies of the HHHS annual Report and brochures describing the patient relations process for our membership. He was happy to report that their financial position is good; there was a modest 2010 surplus. As part of the energy retrofit program, geothermal HVAC systems are being installed, replacing the old boilers at a cost of approximately $1,200,000 which will be offset by fuel cost savings after about 10 years.

MLPOA president Geoff Byford welcomed everyone and thanked the Peppermill Restaurant owners Greg and Lisa Turner for hosting our AGM this year, and introduced members of the MLPOA executive. He spoke about the submission we made in January 2011 towards the township of Minden Hills official plan (in process), which has been held up as an example to other lake associations. Our earlier Lake Stewardship plan document has been part of this foundation as well.

Geoff then called upon Ruth Benson to introduce our guest speaker, Rob Davis, who delivered a wonderful preentation on threats to water quality. Rob is a lifetime cottager and works as a wastewater consultant and specialist in the efficient and environmentally responsible operation of septic systems. For the past 16 years, Rob has worked with industry professionals, government and cottagers to solve on-site wastewater challenges. He explained how septic systems work and what causes them to fail. His presentation included septic myths and folklore, preventative maintenance, proper septic tank pumping and cleaning, and how to protect the investment you have in your sewage system and your cottage waterfront environment. Rob's educational and entertaining presentation received rave reviews!

Reports were then given by the MLPOA treasurer, membership director, clothing director, and lake steward. Steve Taylor also reminded us about the planned activities around the lake this summer - our annual Picnic and Lake Swim to be held July 31 and the Golf Tournament scheduled for August 13.

Congratulations to Jane Boyd, who won the Home Hardware gift certificate sponsored by Alex Roome Construction. The membership incentive draw was new this year, and Jane's number was chosen from the eligible members who had paid their 2011 dues by June 25.

Bruce MacMillan distributed five different donated prizes to the holders of winning tickets, the proceeds of which will support the Minden Food Bank.

We adjourned precisely on time to enjoy the afternoon.

Minden library floods, little damage

Chad Ingram Staff reporter

The Minden Hills branch of the Haliburton County Public Library flooded last week, but escaped any serious damage.

As library CEO Bessie Sullivan explained to the paper, apparently someone had tried to use the library's outdoor faucets on June

Chad Ingram Times staff

Haliburton County Public Library employee Ellie MacNeil was busy reshelving books at the Minden branch on July 4. Staff had to remove part of the branch's collection from its shelves after a flood at the building June 30. Only three books were destroyed.

It appeared the faucets weren't working.

"I'm not a plumber," Sullivan said, before going on to explain that the water had been flowing but, due to what seems to have been freezing at some point, it was flowing not to the faucet, but into the building. "The good news is, we figured it out."

By Thursday morning, Sullivan said about two inches of water was covering much of the library floor.

The stacks had to be lifted and parts of the library's collection were placed on tables.

In all, Sullivan said just three books were destroyed - none of which were new titles and a couple of power bars were fried.

The township called in speciality company Servicemaster, which Sullivan said had the water vacuumed up quickly.

The library then dried out until Sunday, reopening Monday.

Since it would have been closed Friday for Canada Day and Sunday anyway, this meant it lost only one business day.

'We opened [Monday] to total chaos," Sullivan said, explaining staff were still busy re-shelving the books that had to be moved as a result of the water.

Monday was the first day of the library's new summer policy of being open Monday and Sullivan said its new children's programming, also making its debut, was still well attended.

She said she was grateful for the material choices that had been made during the branch's planning.

'To without a carpet really helped us," she said.

The library's floor is marmoleum, a type of vinyl flooring.

If the shelves had been of lesser quality, they would likely have needed replacing.

"It could have been a lot worse," Sullivan said. "Books and water don't mix."

Endodontists End Your Tooth Pain

Consider visiting an endodontist if you experience any of the following:

- You are considering extraction, but value your natural teeth, and would like options on how to save your teeth.
- Sensitivity or pain caused by hot or cold foods
- Constant tooth pain with swollen gums and sensitivity to touch
- Sharp tooth pain when biting down
- Continued sensitivity after a regular dental procedure
- Facial pain that may be related to your teeth
- If you are a nervous patient, we offer IV, Oral, and Nitrous Sedation.

The Teapot Inquiry opens

Chad Ingram Staff reporter

The Teapot Inquiry is about more than a teapot.

It's about the artist's relationship with the teapot and, moreover, people's relationships with the objects they

Rose Pearson's new exhibit opened at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery with a reception on June 30 and will run until

As Pearson explained, every day for 391 days - that's 13 months - she took photos of a small teapot she and her husband had purchased at an auction

"It has little feet . . . it's very curvilinear . . . it's visually pleasing," she said, explaining it had been part of a children's tea set. "The other thing I'm drawn to is that it's silver-plated . . . so it's reflective."

The silver plates reflect objects that are not in the photos themselves, thereby bringing them into the frame and increasing the photos' complexity.

The exhibit consists of 26 paintings derived from the photos.

Some paintings are photorealistic straightforward recreations of a photo - while others are based on layering multiple photos.

Some use collage, bringing in images of animals, for instance, that visited Pearson's property during that 391-day

During that time, the teapot went everywhere with her.

'If I went to get groceries, the teapot went to get groceries," she said.

THE SPINNEY BROTHERS

From the Annapolis Valley of Nova Scotia, Canada, the Spinney Brothers are comprised of Allan Spinney, Rick Spinney, Gary Dalrymple and Darryl Hebb.

Brothers Allan and Rick debuted their band in 1992, showcasing a tight brother duet vocal style that was immediately recognized for it's energetic and distinctive sound.

The cornerstone of the Spinney Brothers musical identity is the sound of traditional, southern-flavoured bluegrass music. The first generation bluegrass legends have been an important musical influence, yet their music is equally shaped by their personal lives and local heritage. By incorporating original material, which draws from various sources, the Spinney Brothers effortlessly intertwine the past with the present.

ACOUSTICAL STRINGS

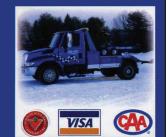

Acoustical Strings are a family band from Cannington, ON. The band has own unique blend of traditional bluegrass, gospel and classic county sounds. Influenced by such artists as Flatt & Scrugs. Reno & Smiley, Mac

Wiseman, Hank Snow, Larry Sparks, they have created there own distinctive sound. The band is made up of Roger on the Dobro, his son Barry on the guitar, and daughter Lorraine on the stand up bass. Include the presence of tight 3 part family harmony and this sets this band apart from other groups

The band has won several Central Canadian Bluegrass Awards. Roger is a 5-time winner of Dobro player of the year and Barry is also a 5-time winner of Guitar player of the year, with both receiving their Honour Roll Inductee Awards. Roger and Barry are the first Father - Son duo to receive this honour. The band has also won Gospel Group of the year 4 times, and 2 Recording Of The Year awards, as well as being nominated for other awards. If you enjoy the old style and sounds, you'll enjoy Acoustical Strings.

As always, the crazy river raft race was a popular draw at Minden Hills's Canada Day festivities, with competitors making their way down the Gull River in homemade rafts. The award for the most original raft was won by the crew of Minden's Cop Car from Drag Lake; the award for the best costumes was won by the crew of The Royal Wedding; the award for the most enthusiastic crew was won by the crew from Jay Lake; and first place finish went to the crew of Canadian Catfish. There were 100 participants on 24 rafts.

Thank You

Thank you

On behalf of the Haliburton County Fair Board I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who helped make the 2011 Beef BBQ dinner such a success. Our bakers, our potato peelers, our cooks, our servers and everyone who helped set up for the event, thank you so much. Thank you to everyone who donated items to our Loonie Auction and of course thank you to our Auctioneer, Doug Pearson, who always does a great job. Without the help of our wonderful volunteers we would not have continued success with our fundraising events. Also thank you to everyone who attended and for supporting our local country fair.

There was no shortage of design ideas for the raft race.

Local librarian appointed to Evergreen Award panel

Chad Ingram

Staff reporter

Considering her surname, it may make sense that Catherine Coles's life revolves around books.

Coles, branch services librarian with the Haliburton County Public Library, was recently named to the steering group for the Evergreen Award, part of the Ontario Library Association's Forest of Reading program.

"It's the only literary award in Canada that's basically decided by the public," Coles says, adding that it strips away the pretension sometimes associated with prizes for literature. "Literary value isn't necessarily a defining factor. It's more about enjoyment, I think."

The steering group, comprised of librarians from across the province, compiles the voting short list from titles submitted by OLA members.

The works must be by living Canadian authors.

Coles will be part of the group selecting titles for the 2012

Appointments to the group usually last a few years.

Patrons of the county's library have voraciously participated in voting for the award in the past.

"Haliburton's always been really good," Coles says. "For a small library in a small county, there's a lot of votes.'

A graduate of the masters of library and information science program at University of Western Ontario, Coles, who's lived most of her life in the county, started working with the library as a summer student in 2009 and was hired on full time in the fall.

"I just think it was the right route for me," she says. "I've always liked libraries. I've always liked books. It was just the

However, Pearson said most of the pictures were very domestic - either in her home or yard - and she joked she'd learned that she didn't travel very far.

The teapot became part of her family, Pearson said, taking on a personality of its own.

'I think we have a lot of objects in our lives," she said. "We don't value these objects because we have so many objects that are junky. [The exhibit] might make people appreciate the objects in their own home.

This is one of the works from Rose Pearson's The Teapot inquiry. It is showing at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery until Aug. 27. /Submitted

High-speed project ahead of schedule

Darren Lum Staff reporter

Haliburton County is edging closer to receiving full connectivity, says the Eastern Ontario Regional Network

At a recent meeting held in Haliburton, the EORN, which is a group comprised of members of the Eastern Ontario Wardens Caucus, provided an update about their efforts to improve access to the Internet with higher speeds and bandwidth to at least 95 per cent of homes and businesses in Eastern Ontario.

This $170 million project is divided into three components: one, installing infrastructure and necessary hardware; two, satellite coverage for remote areas; three, access that builds on the infrastructure. It is referred to as the biggest project in Canada, which has received funding from all

The network's chief executive officer David Fell said the progress of the infrastructure build is ahead of schedule. which will result in 160 "points of presence" (likened to a transformer station that delivers electricity, except in this case, the Internet). It is expected to provide up to 10 megabytes. This far surpasses dial-up service with 1.5 megabytes per second and DSL high-speed with three megabytes. There are already 27 points of presence ready, far exceeding the approximately one dozen expected in the planned

Fell said the team is working on the access build, as they construct the infrastructure. This access component of the project is on schedule and the entire project is should to be completed by March 31, 2014.

Currently, he said, satellite service is available at reduced prices with a plan to add more satellite service to increase the speed and reduce cost by as much as 10 per cent with the launch of two satellites - one later this year and next year, both providing access for the region.

The region's network, which includes Renfrew County to the north, Prince Edward County to the south, the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry and Kawartha Lakes to the west, measures 50,000 square kilometres and includes 1.1 million residents with close to onethird having only poor Internet access.

Warden Murray Fearrey addresses the Eastern Ontario Regional Network (EORN) caucus during a meeting hosted in Haliburton at the Pinestone Resort on Thursday morning, July 7.

Divided into 15 zones, the entire region has a list of deadlines for each zone with Haliburton's deadline expected for the spring of 2013.

The project co-lead Jim Pine said prosperity for individuals and businesses depend on the Internet and response to the community information sessions has been positive.

Think of it as a super highway around eastern Ontario with 160 off ramps, or points of presence so that we can get to you, as a business and an individual," he said. "We're building this thing for today and the future because everyone knows what's going on in the Internet these days. Every year traffic is growing by at least 36 per cent or more each vear, worldwide."

Highlands East Reeve Dave Burton is the chairperson of the network and invited Haliburton County Warden Murray Fearrey, who addressed the group at the start.

"It's important to our economy here and I just ask you keep pressing forward and get it done as quickly as you can because we desperately need it," Fearrey said.

YWCA provides More Than a Roof

Strength. Hope. Support. These words highlight just some of the benefits women experience at YWCA's Haliburton Emergency Rural SafeSpace (HERS) when fleeing abuse. Such positive outcomes were the inspiration behind YWCA Peterborough, Victoria and Haliburton's More Than a Roof event, a new initiative designed to raise awareness that HERS, emergency accommodation offered through YWCA Women's Centre in Haliburton County, provides more than shelter to women and their children escaping domestic violence.

In addition to awareness, More Than a Roof will also raise financial support for HERS through a raffle that offers the chance to win the ultimate Haliburton County getaway, The prize package, worth $2,000, includes: three days and two nights at Buttermilk Falls Resort for two, a three-hour guided fishing trip for two from the Art of Fishing, brunch and dinner for two at Red Umbrella Inn, plus a pontoon boat ride from Buttermilk Falls Resort to Red Umbrella, Experience the Arts in Haliburton, a three hour tour by bicycle or vehicle for two courtesy of Yours Outdoors, a two-hour guided sport kayak adventure for two from Algonquin Outfitters, dinner for two at the Pepper Mill Steak and Pasta House, dinner for two at That Place in Carnarvon, lunch for two at Aniz, two rounds of golf at Blairhampton Golf Course, and one Walk in the Clouds canopy tour at Haliburton Forest and Wildlife Reserve.

Tickets are $10 each or three for $25, and can be purchased in Haliburton at JanKnit's Studio, Dovetail Interiors and the Forest Store, in West Guilford at Cottage Country Log Cabin, in Carnarvon at Buttermilk Falls Resort, Pepper Mill Steak and Pasta House, That Place in Carnarvon and Red Umbrella Inn, in Minden at YWCA Women's Centre, Haliburton County, and at the Haliburton County Information Centre. Ticket purchases can also be purchased by contacting Sarah Adams, YWCA Resource Development Coordinator at 705-457-0260 or sadamsywcahal@bellnet.

The draw for the winning ticket will take place Aug. 22, 2011 at the YWCA Women's Centre, Haliburton County, 11 Bobcaygeon Rd in Minden and the winner will be contacted by phone. All prizes are transferrable, and do not have to be used during the same getaway. Some restrictions, such as valid months to use prizes, do apply. A 30day booking window is recommended for accommodation and experiences. The county of Haliburton tourism office has graciously offered to act as getaway coordinator in order to make the ultimate Haliburton County getaway' the best experience possible for the winner.

Put on your comfortable shoes, because there is plenty to do! Try some, if not all, of the following, then when the season is done you will suffer no regrets!

Our neighbourhood church, the Zion United has given me a list of their activities and I can't hardly wait, I have taken part of their past events and I have not be disappoin-

Coming Events

Saturday, July 23 will be their annual Time and Talent Auction starting at 7 p.m. with many items up for auction from local merchants and talented neighbours. Last year there were some really cool items such as gardening help, baked goods for a month (I got this one, goodies once a week). Yum! There were boat rides, and theme dinners served by the host.

The list was huge and we all received a bidding paddle at the beginning, and yes, it was tense and fun all at the same

Brief mention on August and September events so you won't miss them:

Wednesday, Aug. 17, there will be a Roast Beef Dinner prepared and served by the men of the church. By that time you will need a break from that barbecue.

Friday, Aug. 26, the Zion's famous turkey pies will be on sale at the Farmers Market around the corner.

Sunday, Sept. 11, the Zion United will be celebrating their 120 year anniversary. They have great plans for this event making it a day to remember old times and look into the future.

Saturday, Oct. 1, the annual Studio Tour Lunch starting at 11:30 a.m.

More information and reminders as time draws closer. One item I don't see on their list is the annual street dance. Hopefully it will be added to the Zion's great list of activi-

The annual Stanhope Heritage Day will be held on July 16, from 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. at the Museum Grounds at 1123 North Shore Rd.

There will be a $2 admission button on site, no charge for kids five and under.

There will be many demonstrations from our local artists, displays, live entertainment (Gord Kidd and the 50/50 Band), barbecue lunch and the list goes on and on!

Explore the grounds, then wander into the museum and learn what our history is all about.

The Muskoka Wildlife Centre will be there with a variety of furry animals that you probably can't pet and the Haliburton Farmer's Association will hold a 'meet the animals' with a collection of farm animals that you can actually get close to.

Please don't bring your dogs to these areas.

Taking back riding a priority for PCs: O'Toole

Special to the Times

PC MPP John O'Toole said winning back Haliburton-Kawartha Lakes-Brock in the Oct. 6 provincial election is one of the top priorities of the Tim Hudak government.

In Lindsay for a photo opportunity and a pledge that a PC government would eliminate Dalton McGuinty's eco taxes, O'Toole said he would love to see former PC MPP Laurie Scott back at Queen's Park.

Asked just how important winning this riding is - a riding that turned its back on PC Leader John Tory during a byelection that saw Liberal Rick Johnson sweep into power O'Toole said "top 10, if not no. 1."

He also acknowledged that he felt the PC party owed Scott after she stepped aside to let Tory run in the March 5, 2009 byelection.

He said Scott "for the right, and most noble reasons" gave up her seat to allow Tory to run, for the good of the party and the riding as she knew what having a premier as an MPP could do for Haliburton-Kawartha Lakes-Brock.

"She always had her riding at heart," O'Toole said. He added that he would like to see Scott at the cabinet table in a Tim Hudak government, since she has a voice and commitment.

'We have to win 40 ridings and this is one of the top priority ridings. It is an area proud in history that includes Les-

Music in the park and VIBE keep Kinmount busy

Patti Fleury Around the Town

Shades of Mark Cullen! Crystal Lake cottager and our older son David has taken up landscaping as a hobby. He and Rita were both surprised and delighted to receive an invitation for their Kenilworth Avenue six plex apartment to be featured on the Beaches Horticultural Society's Garden Tour this June. The building, dating back to the turn of the twentieth century, sits back from the busy sidewalk in this popular Toronto area, and David had spent hours restoring the sloping front yard back to its earlier grandeur. Because of the lawn size, some 200 very complimentary visitors stopped by. Several quizzed him intensely about his personal philosophy and thematic interpretations using ornamental grasses, mixed ground groupings, trees and sculptured pieces to create an almost riverlike flow. David could hardly admit to his motivation being more linked to sale prices at the nursery.

This Thursday, July 14 at 6:30 p.m., the Music in the Park welcomes back the Emily Creek Band with country music from the '70s to present day. Well known throughout the Lindsay/Peterborough area, the Band has been together for seven years and its vocals feature harmony highlights. This is the festival event of the series during Kinmount's annual Heritage Week and there will be a barbecue on site with foods available for purchase. The following Thursday a Bucket of Shrimp Ears comes to town. Appreciation goes to the Kinmount and District Lions Club who sponsor the series.

For a fun filled week of morning activities outdoors in Austin Sawmill Heritage Park, the Kinmount United Church will again be holding its VIBE program for kids from July 18 through July 22. Daily activities include crafts, music, games and snacks built around a theme of positive interactions with others. There is no charge to attend. Advanced registration is appreciated and for more information/registration please call 705 488-2687 or 705 488-2938.

Kinmount United Church will also be hosting a special community outdoor service in the Park's picnic pavilion on Sunday, July 17 at 9:45 a.m., with a complimentary barbecue to follow. Rev. Desmond Howard will preside drawing references from both scripture and the environment on the theme of water and its relevance in both our world and our lives. Everyone is welcome to participate.

At the Legion Branch 441 Kinmount it's Big Bucks bid euchre on July 20 at 11 a.m. with a $10 fee which includes lunch. The Branch's Ladies Auxiliary have the summer session of family bingo up and running at 6:30 p.m. on Monday evenings through to late August with admission by donation. Just a reminder that if possible please bring along your own bingo chips.

When the Communities in Bloom judges visit Kinmount on Thursday, July 21 they are bound to be impressed by the beautiful hanging baskets and plantings throughout town. Kinmount is part of the City of Kawartha Lakes entry in this nationwide friendly competition where communities are grouped by population size and the highly experienced volunteer judges assess eight pieces of criteria. The KCPED has once again put its best foot forward on our behalf and each property owner should pitch in to assist the Committee's efforts.

The Kinmount Model Railroad club and museum welcomed some special visitors from the Wellesley Wanderers Vintage Car group back on June 21, who have spent holidays together over the past 30 years. If you haven't yet visited this impressive display, it will be open to 9 p.m. for Moonlight Mania this Saturday, July 16.

New volunteers to assist with the railway are always welcomed. Please check your July copy of the Kinmount Gazette or visit www.kinmount.ca for details about the many Heritage Week events later this week

Heritage Day is just around the corner

Gina Atkinson Stanhope Life

705-489-1397 pinereflections@sympatico.ca

July 16 is going to be a very busy day for you!

The Stanhope Heritage Day runs from 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. with many things to see and do. Check out the Museum for some history about this area.

One of my neighbours, Joyce Crowther who is part of the Friends of Stephen's Church would also like to extend an open invitation to everyone for their Heritage Day this Saturday as well. St. Stephens is located on Buckslide Road and will be open from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. for an opportunity for you to enjoy one of our beautiful churches and learn about its past.

While all of this is going on I hope that you have time to take in our annual Summer Celebration/Garden Party. We have live music, free barbecue lunch, activities for kiddies of all ages. Rick Lowes will be here as well to broadcast live for the Moose FM - our own local radio station. There will door prizes, special deals to be made and just a great time to see old friends, or make new ones.

Birthday wishes go out to ... me! There was a time in my life were I kept my birthday quiet because I was quite shy back then. Now I enjoy the fuss, the gifts, although my friends say I am impossible to buy for because of my gift store, I say

Sunday was my birthday and I spent the day in the city at a family bridal shower and also had a visit with my mom who is very practical with her gifts. She has given me frying pans, cases of tomatoes so that I can make sauce, bath towels, and detergent - all useful items. When a person still has memories of growing up during wartime it's hard to be frivolous so Ma's gifts to me will always be useful and never personal. This year my gift was side dishes, a set of eight. Maybe she is still trying to teach me to share.

Have a great week!

Summer crafts and plenty of recreation centre events for the whole family in Dorset

Melissa Alfano

Dorset News

705-766-0076

melalfano@hotmail.com

On behalf of the businesses in and around Dorset and the Dorset Community Projects Group, thank you all for coming out to the Dorset fireworks. With the help of all our volunteers, Paul Greenaway, his barge and the best guys doing the fireworks, it was another spectacular show. Your generous donations will ensure it happens again next year!

Your friendly lumber and hardware dealer

Can you help with kid's fun day projects? We are looking for clean used coffee cans with lids or soup cans. Before taking them to the landfill, the Algonquin Highlands recreation department would be pleased to take them off your hands for fun crafts. Drop off at the Dorset recreation centre or call 705-766-9968.

Marlene Karys from Big Bead in Huntsville will be at the recreation centre on July 13 at 6:30 p.m. to lead a class in making a peyote tube. Tubes can be used as beads and joined together to make a myriad of projects such as bracelets, earrings, necklaces or even a key chain or zipper pull. Marlene will be bringing along a great selection of beads in the latest, hottest colours or feel free to bring your own. The tubes work best with delica beads but seed beads can also be used. The class is $10 plus HST (plus materials if purchased) and is open to all ages 10 and up. For more information or to sign up, please call 705-766-9968.

There are tons of other great activities at the Dorset Recreation Centre this July and August. Pick up a newsletter and read more about creative express art nights, stone carving studios, hand drumming program and Dorset day camp to name just a few. Call 705-766-9968 for more information or stop in to visit. The Dorset Lions Club is holding their annual Rib Fest at the recreation centre on July 23. For more information and tickets, give Lion Steve a call at 705-766-2469. The stone carving studio takes place on July 29 from 1 to 4 p.m. at the recreation centre. Join stone sculptor Elise Muller of Stone Tree Studio and learn how to carve a necklace or sculpture. The cost is $25 plus materials and is suitable for youth and adults. Call Elise at 705-766-1382 to pre-register.

Sorry for missing last week's news! Birthday wishes this week cover the two weeks from July 3 to 16 and go out to Paul Wilson, Norman MacKay, Ursula Bryant, Lindsay Drinkwater, Brandon Galloway, Jesse Ryan, Scott Crewson, Ted Hope, Andy McEachern, Joe Fuller, Dawn Abel and Don Abel. For all who have birthdays, anniversaries and special occasions this week, have fun on your special day!

To submit an item of interest or a birthday wish, please email me at melalfano@hotmail.com or give me a call.

THANKSGIVING Novena to St. Jude -Oh Holy St. Jude, Apostle and Martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near Kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage, in time of need to you I have recourse, from the depths of my heart and humbly beg to whom God has given such great power to come to my assistance. Help me in my present and urgent petition. In return, I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked. St. Jude, pray for us all who invoke your aid. Amen. Say 3 Our Fathers, 3 Hail Marys and Glories. Publication must be promised. Never known to fail, this novena had my request granted. J.F.

ROBERTSON, Helen Marie - In Loving Memory. Wasn't the world fortunate to have Helen Marie Robertson in it? She was one of those rare people who always thought of others before herself. Known for her small acts of kindness - bouquets picked from her garden, fresh baked cookies, cards or letters with newsy stories - she loved to make people's days just a little brighter. A teacher and librarian in Toronto, she married Murray Robertson and moved to Haliburton in 1945. Helen put her talents to work at helping to run the Northern Eagle, first as a resort, then as a youth hostel, and finally as a campground. Predeceased by her husband after 59 years of marriage, Helen will be sorely missed by her two children: Larry Robertson (Pom Sailasuta) and Gena Robertson (Ric Pringle, deceased). Helen died peacefully at Highland Wood in her 94th year. Cremation has taken place. If desired, donations may be made in Helen's memory to SIRCH Community Services www.sirch.on.ca or through the GORDON A. MONK FUNERAL HOME Ltd., P.O. Box Minden, Ontario K0M 2K0. www.gordonmonkfuneralhome.com

From Kinmount to Alaska and back

Patti Fleury Around the Town

705-488-2938 Fax: 488-1246 brucefleury@nexicom.net

Quoting from Dorothy and Toto "there's no place like home". Bruce and I have just returned from our first cruise travelling from Seattle north to Alaska on the impressive Rhapsody of the Seas liner. The scenery was, to say the least, breathtaking with rugged mountains, shining glaciers and heart-stopping trips by steam train high up through Klondike gold rush history. On board the ship's services, menus and programs were exceptional particularly as the cold windy weather limited deck promenading. Packed as afterthoughts, our sturdy canvas coats from Bobcaygeon's British Trading Post were put to daily use and in hindsight our red Olympic mittens would have made a real fashion statement . While my main wish to see the whales never came true. I confess that even with all that natural grandeur our favourite sight was the smiling face on our daughter Megan and family unexpectedly waiting to greet us as we struggled through the arrivals gate at Pearson with our luggage in tow.

The special series Music in the Park, sponsored by the Kinmount and District Lions Club, will continue through the months of July and August every Thursday evening at 6:30 p.m. in beautiful Austin Sawmill Heritage Park. Bring along family, friends and lawn chairs, and enjoy an evening at the Picnic Shelter beside the Burnt River. This week's featured musicians will be the popular local Gord Kidd and Friends with the Emily Creek Band on deck for the next session. While enroute to the concert be sure to check out the renovations to the historic sawmill and the plants in the heritage garden.

The Galway and Area Ratepayers, Inc. invites residents both permanent and seasonal to it's meeting this Saturday, July 9 at the Galway Hall. Starting at 10 a.m., featured speakers will be Janet Clarkson, mayor of Galway-Cavendish and Harvey and J. Murray Jones, warden of the County of Peterborough. This is a great opportunity to dialogue with these senior officials on issues which affect our households

At the park entrance area the Kinmount Farmers Market will be in full swing on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., while in the Railway Station the model railroad winds its way between Kinmount and Haliburton on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. except for holiday weekends when the Railway Museum is also open from noon to 3 pm. Both these attractions are worth a visit.

With gardens in full bloom, mark your calendars now for the Kinmount Garden Tour on Saturday, July 9. For information on this annual event please call 705 488-

Planning is well underway for the third annual Heritage in the Village festival coming up from July 13 through July 16. If you receive the Kinmount Gazette, check the schedule of events and related details or visit www.kinmount.ca for an overview.

The fabulous free Ghost Tour heads out from the Railway Station on Wednesday, July 13 with local historian Guy Scott. Meet there at 8:30 p.m. to walk about and hear the facts and fables about Kinmount's past. If needed, the rain date will be July 14. On Thursday, July 14 it will be a special Festival edition in the Music in the Park series at 6:30 p.m. with both headline entertainment by the Emily Creek Band and a barbecue with foods available for purchase.

On Friday, July 15 you're all invited to a Wedding Fashion Show at 7:30 p.m. in St. Patrick's Catholic Church with special music and readings in keeping with the festive occasion. Light refreshments will be served and tickets are $8 at the door. Then Moonlight Mania will come to Kinmount on Saturday, July 16 from 5 to 10 p.m. with a great variety of both familiar and new activities for the whole family along Main Street, and free hot air balloon rides at the Railway Station yards sponsored by Re-Max Realty and the first Great Toy Boat Race (705-488-1101). For information on free vendor space please contact (705-488-2961), for the Soap Box Derby (488-1818) and for the Classic Car Cruise Fest (488-1706).

On Sunday morning on July 17 Kinmount United Church will host a special community outdoor service in the Park at 10 a.m. with Rev. Desmond Howard presiding. The theme will be water and its relevance in both our world and our lives, drawing references from both scripture and the growing body of environmental knowledge and awareness.

For a fun-filled week of morning activity outdoors Kinmount United Church will again be holding its VIBE program for children from Monday, July 18 through Friday, July 22 in Austin Sawmill Heritage Park. Activities include crafts, music and games built around a theme of positive interactions with others. There is no charge to attend. Advanced registration is encouraged and appreciated for planning purposes. For more information and registration please contact Joyce at 705-488-2687 or Bruce at 705-488-2938.

Until next week . . .

Waterless Car Wash

Price: $14.99

Available at: Canadian Tire

Description: Personally, when I wash my car, I like to use lots of water and plenty of suds. But if for whatever reason you need or want a waterless car wash experience then check out this product.

Some of us live in municipalities with by-laws that prohibit residents from washing their cars in their driveways. Others live in cities that may limit water use based on lower water levels during the peak season. In either case a waterless solution is the answer.

GOclean is a new waterless car wash product. Just spray, wipe and shine. It's completely biodegradable, and you can wash, wax, and polish in one application

Car Apps

Price: varies according to the app Available at: www.iconosys.com

Description: Caught speeding and need to fight the ticket? There's an app for that! Believe it or not, California-based Iconosys has come up with a long menu of driverrelated apps for smartphones and tablets that will let you do things you didn't think

Their My Max Speed app logs your speed every five seconds, stores the data in a spreadsheet, and can be tapped to display the exact physical location of your vehicle on a map at any given speed. If you got nailed for speeding when you really weren't this can help you fight the charge in court.

But wait, there's more. The company's DriveReply app will block all phone calls and texts when you're driving to limit driver distraction. At speeds greater than 25 km/hr the app auto replies a responsible message to inbound callers and texters, letting them know that you're not available right now because you're driving.

There's plenty of other apps from which to choose, and it's worth the time to take a closer look at their website for details.

Boot Mark Remover

Price: $12.95

Available at: Harley Davidson dealers

Description: Here's a product for all the bikers our there who write me with complaints that I never offer gadgets for motorcycle riders. To be perfectly honest, although I would love to ride, I still haven't gotten around to getting licensed to do so ... but it is on my bucket list.

I've been told that bikers have trouble getting boot marks off all that shiny
